6. SCOPE OF WORK

6.1. OVERVIEW

6.1.1. The RFQ is for the research to be conducted on South Africa's auditor liability regime. The bidders will be required to submit a research proposal that provides an overview of how the research will be conducted as well as the areas that the research will focus on. The appointed service provider will also be required to present on the outcomes of the research at a SAICA event. This will be a two-hour event and SAICA may require that the presentation be conducted at a selected venue. Furthermore, the appointed service provider will be required to produce at least three thought leadership pieces that may be used in SAICA publications as well as external media platforms on the key outcomes from the research. The research produced will be the property of SAICA.

Some of the key areas we expect to be covered include:

- South Africa's existing auditor liability regime and a comparison with other developed and developing jurisdictions.
- An overview of the legislation that governs auditor liability regime in South Africa.
- How other professions in South Africa regulate liability?
- What are Limited Liability Partnerships (LLPs) and are their suitability in the South African environment?
- The advantages and disadvantages of LLPs.
- Other mechanisms that exist globally to equitably limit auditors' exposure to unfair liability claims.
- What are some of the reforms that could be introduced in South Africa with regards to auditor liability reforms?

6.2. Background and context to the research

In South Africa, auditors' liability is determined under the common law "joint and several liability" regime. Liability exposure may be somewhat moderated by the effect of the Apportionment of Damages Act, 1956 (if applicable). The Auditing Profession Act, 2005 (APA) codifies auditor liability for fraudulent misrepresentation and for negligent misrepresentation to their client and to third parties.

It does not, however, limit such auditor liability as would arise under other statutes or the common law, or under contracts entered into between an auditor and a third party. Under the APA, registered auditors are also expressly prohibited from entering into any agreement to limit or reduce any liability they would incur under section 46 of that Act.

No policy work has been undertaken by government or the profession to examine the nature, scope and extent of auditor liability in South Africa to explore whether or not it is broadly aligned to policy settings for auditor liability in other developed economies, or to explore whether any significant differences exist and why.

The World Bank's 2013 ROSC Report (Accounting and Auditing) for South Africa highlighted auditor liability issues as a negative factor impeding development of the auditing profession in South Africa (high risk posed by unlimited liability, and perceived lack of attractiveness of the auditing profession). Introducing law amendments to allow auditing firms to form limited liability partnerships was viewed as a potential solution (recommendation included in the ROSC report).

Subsequently, no further policy work has been initiated to examine the effects of these regulatory issues on the audit markets in South Africa, and on the future viability of the auditing profession.

SAICA aims to conduct this research to initiate policy discussion on the necessary reforms required to create the appropriate auditor liability regime in South Africa.

7. Evaluation Criteria

	Evaluation criteria	Weight
1	Qualifications, experience and expertise of the person that is accountable and responsible for the research, review and presentation of the material as well as the writing of the thought leadership pieces. Expert: 35-40%            Suitably qualified: 25-35%            Partially qualified: 20-25%            Not qualified: 0% - 15%	40%
